1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 1990-150456 Tsuji and US Pat. No. 4311814 Ochsenbein et al. in view of US Pat. No. 4663429 Murai et al. and US Pat. No. 3957906 Buzbee et al..

Tsuji discloses unsaturated polyesters falling within the scope of those of the instant claims, particularly at example B of Table 3 of the translation provided by the applicant's. Tsuji also discloses the use of the instantly claimed fibers at the ninth page, last two lines. Non-fibrous filler is not disclosed. The reference encompasses all polyether polyols and polyester polyols as an alcohol component of the polyester at the sixth page, second full paragraph of the translation supplied by the applicants. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the polyols of the instant claims 1-9, 20-25, and 27-34 because they are well known and commercially available polyols which are encompassed by the recitations of polyether polyols and polyester polyols of Tsuji and these polyols would have contributed their well known properties to the final polyester in proportion to the amounts used. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the instantly claimed combinations of fillers in the compositions of Tsuji because such fillers are conventional in the unsaturated polyester art as shown by column 7, lines 4-20 of Murai et al. and would have been expected to give their conventional properties to the final product of Tsuji. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the instantly claimed pultrusion process to shape the articles of Tsuji because such shaping methods are conventional for fiber reinforced unsaturated polyester articles as taught by Buzbee et al. column 10, lines 38-47.
